

son, Samuel B. Ashford, and two daughters, Violet A. Fowler and Norma E. Riggles. His funeral took place on Monday from the Groff Funeral Home in Fairfax, with the Rev. F. M. Lucas, pastor of the Fairfax Methodist Church officiating. Burial was in Fairfax cemetery.

SCHOOL BOARD MEETING

The meeting of the County School Board this week was largely occupied with a discussion of the plans for rebuilding the Oakton school, which was burned down several months ago. Work on the new building has not as yet been begun. The Board was advised that as of June 27 there were 51 vacancies on the faculties of the white schools in the county, and one in the colored schools. The Board will meet Monday next, and on Thursday next, July 6 at 11 a. m., bids will be opened for the Falls Church high school.

Small Stoves

Soldiers alone or in small groups may carry and cook over stoves which weigh less than 1½ pounds. Stopping by a jungle trail they may heat up their canned meat and vegetable hash within a few minutes, add a little hot water to their dehydrated gravy, prepare a warm drink and serve a hot meal with no danger that the Japs will be able to spot them because of the fire or smoke. They may stop in zero weather atop some barren Arctic island, throw a few handfuls of snow in a kettle, add some coffee powder and soon enjoy a steaming cup.

Lisping Lawyer Gets

Leave to Fix Teeth

CHATTANOOGA. — Criminal Court Judge Frank Darwin allowed a continuance in an assault case when the defense attorney pleaded:

"Counsel has just recently had some new teeth put in and is unable to enunciate properly, and, therefore, does not feel he can represent the defendant properly at this time."

3 tablespoons grated horse-radish root.
2 tablespoons lemon juice.
2 tablespoons powdered sugar.
1 teaspoon salt.
Mix ingredients in order given. Canned beets may be used in place of fresh ones, and bottled horse-radish, if of strong flavor and well drained. Serves 6.
