

Mrs. Vera Louden, instructor at the cooperative school for handicapped children in Falls Church, directs the youngsters' toy band. From left: to right are Valda, 12; James, 8; Ronny, 8; James, 5, and Noel, 6.

Fun in and around a sandbox is had by Henry, 5 (on bike); Mary Jo, 7 (in wheel chair); Lewis, 5; Sara, 4, and Dianne, 5. The teacher is Mrs. Franklin McCurdy. The school is run by a private parents' coop, in Crossman Methodist Church.

By Henry Rohland—The Washington Post

Two active participants in the school, Police Chief Elliott Howe of Falls Church, and the Rev. A. P. Roach, pastor of Crossman Church, help William, 5, to one of the new station wagons which have been contributed to transport the children.